Coronavirus Update - Impact on Valuing Private Investments at June 30, 2020

The economic impact of government and public health actions to reduce the spread of COVID-19 has created massive unemployment, liquidity concerns and significant uncertainty. Many cities, states and countries have started to “reopen” their economies with the impact on businesses and the health of the populace uncertain. As a follow-up to our March and April 2020 webcasts focused on valuing private investments, we will discuss key concerns and suggestions for estimating fair value at June 30, 2020. Our experts will answer questions and discuss practical steps fund managers and investors in non-traded or infrequently traded equity, debt and structured product investments can take as they exercise their fiduciary duty to report independent and credible fair value information to investors and stakeholders.

Please submit your questions in advance and join us on June 10, 2020.
